

The no-call list is an extremely important consumer protection tool. Just because I have a telephone does not mean I should be open to a business invading my privacy whenever they choose.

Wisconsin has a great no-call list. If the US government cannot provide the protection its citizens demand, let the states take care of it.

The FCC SHOULD NOT override the states' no-call lists when the states' versions are stronger.